Quality of Investment

This is an all-important matter, especially to people of moderate means. There are so many alluring schemes put before the public that even those who study these matters find it difficult to discriminate. The main object of saving is to be able to put your hand on ready money when in need, and your account in the bank is the only form of investment that can be absolutely relied on to perform that service. You may go along smoothly for years, and then something occurs requiring immediate relief, then you have your money to fall back upon, and you can draw your check, plus interest. You cannot do so with any other investment, however good it may be.

This has been our mission for a quarter of a century, to safeguard the money of the wage-earner, and we have paid out during that time nearly six hundred thousand dollars for interest to depositors.

There is another feature that this bank has been doing all these years, namely, to lend money to worthy people, enabling them to acquire homes on most liberal terms. We have a number of good banks in this city of ours. Your money is as safe in one as the other, but you want to connect up with the institution that renders you best service, and we respectfully submit that none can excel us in this particular.

OFFICERS TO HAVE BIG WEEK'S WORK

Program for Camp of Instruction at Staunton Issued by Major Wright.

Acting Adjutant-General Wright has issued orders adjusting the program for the camp of instruction to be held for infantry officers of the Virginia Volunteers at Staunton, May 25 to 31, inclusive. The officers will be divided into six classes. The first will be composed of all staff officers (except regimental, battalion and medical), also colonels, lieutenant-colonels and majors of the line; the second, of all regimental and battalion staff officers; the third, of captains and first lieutenants (except regimental and battalion staff officers); the fourth, of second lieutenants (except battalion staff officers); and the fifth, of second lieutenants (except battalion staff officers).

At 7:30 o'clock Monday morning, May 26, there will be an assembly of all officers for assignment to classes, assignment of instructors and explanation of work to be pursued.

The week will be occupied largely in tactical walks, which will include problems in foot marches, outpost duty, advance guard work, attack and defense, firing map reading and the general duties of officers of various ranks.

The program for Saturday, May 31, the last day of the camp, is held open for the present, and will be decided upon in camp.

Found! A Jewel

"Harry's wife has had a washwoman for over a month now," said a husband to his wife the other day, "and Harry says she is a perfect jewel." Now, my dear, you seem to be always without one, and you are breaking your back and ruining your health over those tubs. Why don't you do what Harry's wife did, and you can find just such a 'jewel,' too?"

"Well, if I knew how to get such a woman to work for me, there is nothing I would not do to keep her," said his wife, "but I've tried everything I know of without result. How did Mrs. H. get her 'jewel,' do you know?"

"Harry says his wife just ran a Want Ad. twice and she found her 'jewel' the second day."

The Want Columns have been a "jewel" finder for many a housewife. Why not let them find one for you?

LAKESIDE OUTING
ENJOYED BY BLUES

Battalion Duly Celebrates 124th Anniversary of Its Organization.

Not the least enjoyable feature of the celebration of the 124th anniversary of the organization of the Richmond Blues yesterday was the fact that there was no speechmaking. This would have been a difficult task in the open, with a lot of restless young men forming the audience. Everybody, therefore, was left free to do as he pleased, and there was no oratory.

By the time the shadows began to lengthen at Lakeside, and the battalion, Blues associations and guests began to consult street car time tables, everybody was ready to vote the affair the most enjoyable of the many that have been held throughout the years gone by. Chairman John A. Cutchins, the other members of the committee in charge, to change the feeling that they had acted wisely in choosing an all-day outing rather than a dinner or a dance as the means of celebrating this year. It was really a revival of the practice of three-quarters of a century ago, when the Blues used to observe May 10 by having an outing at Buchanan's Spring, a spot now in the northwest part of the city.

The day was cool enough to make baseball and all sorts of outdoor sports thoroughly welcome and enjoyable, and warm enough to make eating al fresco, which is highbrow for taking on, feel either in the sunlight or in the shade of the trees, entirely delightful. The weather did all it could for the occasion. It would seem that not since the day 124 years ago, when Captain William Richardson organized the Richmond Blues, could there have been a more auspicious and well-organized occasion.

Most of the battalion went out to Lakeside about 10 o'clock, when trailers were put on the cars of the line. Others traveled there throughout the day. Invited guests were admitted at the park entrance on displaying badges furnished for the occasion, each with a coupon given the gatekeeper. A member of the committee managed the entrance.

Two hastily organized nines played baseball for a long time during the morning, to the delight of the battalion and of the members of the Blues Association, all of whom were expected, and many of whom came. The game was signaled by the multiplicity of umpires, having about eighteen first and last, as one after another they, others pitched, quitted and a number of other things in the line of physical exercise.

Shoot for Old Medal.
Then came the shoot for the ancient medal, at least a century old and perhaps 120 years old, which is awarded annually to the best shot in the battalion. The men handled with weapons entered the contest. Captain Percy Montague, Jr., who was over in 1911 and 1912, and also had it in two previous years—four in all—but who has recently retired from the military, acted as judge of the shoot.

At the close of the contest, each man having fired twenty-five shots, it was found that Corporal Thomas A. Norris, of Company A, and Private Stanley B. Campbell, of Company C, had tied with a score of twenty-two each, while several others made twenty-three. In shooting off the tie, Private Campbell made a clean score of twenty-five. Corporal Norris tried to equal it, but missed the mark and was over.

Captain Montague has turned the medal, which he has worn four years, over to Major E. W. Bowles, who will preserve it for Private Campbell before the entire command at the next battalion full dress parade.

This over, the committee announced dinner, which was served under the trees close to the club house by Caterer Governor. There is no gain-saying the fact that it was magnificently done, and it was properly heated, before 400 people, old Virginia Brunswick stew, French lamb chops, country fried chicken, rasher bacon, potatoes with their delicious onion, deviled crabs, Smithfield ham, ice cream and all other necessary appurtenances and hereditaments to a Blues' dinner properly belonging, considering all the circumstances in the case, was a score of twenty-two each.

Not much was left, it must be said.

Among those at the central table were Captain Clarence Wyatt, president of the Richmond Blues Association; Major E. W. Bowles, commander of the Richmond Light Infantry Battalion; Henry C. Stuart, next Governor of Virginia; J. Taylor Elyson, lieutenant-governor; Judge Richard Wingfield, of the State Corporation Commission; Captain John Lamb, former Congressman from the Third Virginia District; Colonel Charles A. Denney, United States Army; Captain J. K. Partello, U. S. A., inspector-instructor with the Virginia Volunteers; Lieutenant Colonel John Lane Stern, assistant inspector-general; and Major J. K. Partello, U. S. A., inspector-instructor with the Virginia Volunteers.

Perhaps as many as 100 Virginia women will attend the meetings. There are twenty regularly elected delegates, all of whom go to St. Louis. Among the Richmond women who will make the pilgrimage to St. Louis are the following: Mrs. William Elyson, Mrs. J. P. Thomas, Miss Rita Foster and Miss Alice Taylor. The president of the Women's Missionary Union of Virginia, Miss Elizabeth Savage, of Franklin, will go with the Richmond delegation. In addition there will be delegates and visitors from Danville, Norfolk, Lynchburg, Roanoke, Staunton and other Virginia points.

During the past year the Baptist women of Virginia gave, through the missionary societies, very largely to the mission causes of the church, the contributions reported for the year ending April 15, being about as follows:

Foreign missions	$26,786.79
Home missions	14,281.56
Sunday school board (Bibles)	135.01
Margaret Home	150.00
Training school	2,713.17
Total	$44,066.53

PURCELL, NOT COTTRELL

Clay Ward Man Gets Credit for Another Speech Before Committee.
In the report in yesterday's issue of The Times-Dispatch of the debate in the City Democratic Committee over placing the annexation issue on the ballots in the June primary, some remarks made by John M. Purcell, of Clay Ward, are erroneously credited to Walker C. Cottrell, a former member of the committee from that ward. Mr. Cottrell resigned from the committee some weeks ago, when elected to the city School Board. Mr. Purcell spoke in favor of waiting until a definite plan of annexation has been formulated, and then having that issue submitted to the people. In the conclusion of the meeting his remarks were credited to Mr. Cottrell. Mr. Purcell later fell in with the majority and voted to place the question on the ballots in the primary of June 12.

SADDLERY MEN TO GATHER HERE

Wholesalers and Manufacturers
Hold Conventions Here
This Week.

One hundred and thirty delegates to the convention of the Wholesale Saddlery Association, which will be held here beginning tomorrow, will reach Richmond at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon, and will be met by the local committee with six busses drawn by motor cars.

The convention is expected to attract about 500 delegates, representing leading saddlery houses, from all over the United States.

On Thursday the convention of the National Saddlery Manufacturers' Association will open here. The program for the meetings of the two allied associations has been issued in one volume, and although the business meetings of the two will be held separately, they will join in their entertainments.

The women will play a prominent part in the entertainment program. A local committee has been appointed, which will receive them at the Jefferson Hotel, which will be headquarters for both associations. Immediately after the formal opening on Tuesday, at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening the Wholesale Association will entertain all delegates and their wives at a buffet supper at the Jefferson, which will be followed by dancing.

Wednesday will be devoted to an excursion down the James River, to which all members of the two associations and members of their families are invited.

Thursday morning at 11 o'clock the women will leave the Jefferson Hotel for a trolley ride to the Country Club, where a luncheon will be served. The committee has also planned a series of automobile trips covering all points of interest in Richmond, which will be announced in detail later.

Addresses of Welcome.
The first formal meeting of the Wholesale Association will be held on Tuesday, Monday being set aside for committee meetings. Addresses of welcome will be made by Mayor Ainslie and President T. M. Carrington of the Chamber of Commerce. This will be followed by an executive session of the Manufacturers' Association, which will hold sessions both Thursday and Friday.

The members of the local women's entertainment committee are as follows: Mrs. Christian Clarke, chairman; Mrs. J. T. Palmatier, Mrs. P. A. Seaton, Miss Elizabeth Myron, Miss Mary Myers, Miss Mae Williams, Mrs. J. W. Wyatt, Mrs. J. W. Sharp, Mrs. A. M. Walcup, Mrs. Horace F. Smith, Mrs. W. T. Dabney, Mrs. John Bagby, Mrs. D. C. Richardson, Mrs. J. E. Corley, Mrs. Arthur Evans, Mrs. J. F. Ryland, Mrs. George C. Russell, Mrs. Alvin M. Smith, Mrs. Charles C. Johnson, Mrs. B. T. Crump, Mrs. T. A. Stanford.

The committee on convention arrangements is as follows: J. T. Palmatier, chairman; P. A. Seaton, W. B. Carrier, F. A. Jett, R. H. Farthing, Thomas Harvey, M. V. Horton, T. A. Stanford, J. M. Wyatt, J. E. Utz, K. W. H. B. Florsheim, H. G. Ellett, W. H. Schwartz, Richmond Moore, John Bagby, Carroll Taylor, J. W. Sharp, C. C. Cottrell, W. A. Crenshaw, W. H. Adams, T. C. Walford, Jr., H. L. Harwood, George C. Russell, Alvin Smith, J. G. Corley, O. Herbert Funder, T. M. Carrington, Horace F. Smith, Nathan Simon, Arthur M. Cannon, C. T. Norman, R. L. Peters, Fred H. Powell, Walter D. Gordon, Christian Clarke, Percy J. Straus.

FIRST REGIMENT TO HAVE REUNION

Gathering of Former Members at Laying of New Armory
Corner-Stone.

Efforts are being made by the committee of the First Virginia Regiment Association having in charge the laying of the cornerstone of the new First Regiment Armory, to make the occasion a reunion of the men who made up the command and who held the places of honor in the history of the old First Regiment. It is the desire of the association that every survivor of the old First Infantry who was connected with the regiment since that time, including the members of the Seventeenth Regiment, which name it was known just before Spanish War times.

The committee, as already announced, has designated Thursday, June 6, at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, as the time when the cornerstone shall be laid with Masonic honors in Temple Lodge, No. 9, which will have charge of the ceremony.

All the men who have ever served in the regiment will be communicated with as far as possible, the hope that they may be able to attend.

Littlefield-Gouldman.
Miss Beattie Taylor Gouldman and Mortimer Littlefield were married at "Shellfield," in Westmoreland County, the home of the bride, last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. P. Phelps, of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The ceremony was followed by a handsome reception.

SAM STERN FAILED TO LAND POSITION

Now He Opposes Satterfield.
Candidates Appeal for Clay
Ward Votes.

Being more frank than some other folks, Sam Stern, whose hear rejoices when he is called "Mayor of Jefferson Ward," said last night, in speaking before the Clay Ward Active, that he is opposing John L. Satterfield for re-election because the City Sergeant would not give him a job as deputy. He was just out of the hospital, he said, and wanted an appointment to help him out of charity. "I would rather be in my grave," commented Sam, "than to be a City Sergeant."

So he is going to stand by Wilbur J. Griggs. He told with tears in his eyes of the time he ran for this office last year, and after parting with $500, he sought the advice of Judge S. H. Witt as to whether or not he should put up $250 more for entrance fee. The advice was, "don't do it." "But," concluded Sam, "if all the hairs that promised had voted for me I would have been elected by a large majority."

Several candidates for city offices addressed the Clay Ward Active, who met in Monroe Hall. Sheriff J. Herbert Mercer merely said he would continue to do his duty and obey the law, if re-elected. His opponent, Stephen Johnson, was unable to be present because of the illness of his father, and sent word to the club to this effect by J. H. Sharp.

F. H. Bowers spoke for Sergeant Satterfield, saying that officer and his deputies had discharged their duties to the satisfaction of the public, and there had been no complaint.

Wilbur J. Griggs said he had a right to aspire to the office, which will become vacant at the end of his term by the operation of law. He promised to work a three-shift system of eight hours each if elected—supper, rest, the fall force. Further, he said he would spend the money for support of the fall among Richmond merchants, who, he argued, help to support the institution and should have the patronage.

Stonewall J. Wright briefly called attention to the record of H. E. Tresnon, Commissioner of Revenue, who was unable to be present. T. Peter Howie, who is opposing Mr. Tresnon, maintained the right of a poor man to aspire for office, and referred to the deputies now in the office, he said they are not on the ticket and they are not factors, which sentiment was greeted with shouts of approval. He concluded by saying, "I retain all the deputies if elected, but he did not say he would do so. A. L. Lucas told some good Italian stories.

M'GUIRE NAMED
DEAN OF FACULTY

Teaching Staff of Consolidated
Medical Colleges Meets and Elects Officers.

As predicted months ago, Dr. Stuart McGuire was elected dean of the faculty of the Medical College of Virginia and University College of Medicine, amalgamated at a meeting of the newly elected teaching staff on Friday night. Other positions filled were: Dr. A. L. Gray, chairman of the medical faculty; Dr. R. L. Simpson, chairman of the dental faculty; A. Bolonbaugh, chairman of the pharmaceutical faculty.

J. Ralph McCauley, who as secretary of the old board of the Medical College of Virginia, and was recently elected secretary of the new joint board of visitors, was chosen secretary of the college of the new medical college. While the selection of Dr. McGuire to preside over the faculty has been practically a foregone conclusion from the moment when the amalgamation was effected, it was hardly expected that men from the University College of Medicine were to be placed at the head of every department. Dr. McGuire, who was president of the University College of Medicine, was a moving spirit in the consolidation of the two colleges.

On June 1 the offices of the Medical College of Virginia will be transferred to the handsome new building of the University College of Medicine, and from that time the two institutions will be operated as one. It is generally expected that at its next meeting the board of visitors will make arrangements for the closing of the Virginia Hospital about July 1.

The faculty of the Medical College of Virginia has set aside the night of May 19 to pass upon applications for graduation. Final examinations are now in progress.

ALDERMEN MEET TUESDAY

Will Act on Ordinances Increasing Pay of Firemen and Police.

The Board of Aldermen will meet Tuesday night in regular session to consider a large enrollment of official papers coming from the Common Council for concurrence. These include the ordinances granting an increase of 6 per cent in the pay of firemen and policemen and fixing the salary of the Mayor at $5,000 per year.

The Committee on Finance is called to meet one hour before the Board of Aldermen to further consider papers relative to acquisition by the city of the wedge of land separating the two sections of William Byrd Park.

WEBER EXPLAINS
SOCIETY'S PLAN

Secretary Asserts That It Is Not Opposed to Annexation of New Territory.

Secretary Gustavus A. Weber, of the Society for the Betterment of Housing and Living Conditions in Richmond, said yesterday that the public had formed erroneous impressions as to the objects of the work, and that the belief that the association was opposed to annexation was entirely wrong. Mr. Weber gave The Times-Dispatch the following statement for publication:

"Will you permit me to endeavor, through your columns to correct some erroneous impressions obtained by some people from the published extracts from my report on the housing and living conditions in Richmond? In it I made no statement in opposition to annexation. I merely stated certain facts which were disclosed by my investigations. While there is much vacant land space within the present city limits, there is no doubt that if the city conveniences, such as water mains, sewers, streets, etc., could be extended over a larger area it would be a distinct benefit to the entire community. In how far such an extension would make the land within or without the present city limits more available for cheap homes for the working people I am not prepared to say. There is a tendency throughout the country to extend the limits of cities, as shown by the census reports of the area and population of cities and no doubt such extensions have been advantageous in many cases.

"Another erroneous impression is that I advocated the crowding out of yards and thus congesting the population. We should endeavor to avoid alley houses as well as large tenements. It has been the experience of larger cities that both are unavoidable in sections where large numbers of people must necessarily live and where the lots are too deep to permit the economical construction of small houses on the street front only. Philadelphia, which is deservedly called the 'City of Homes,' has earned its reputation largely because the shallow lots in the newer sections of that city have made it possible for working people to rent or acquire their homes at prices within their reach. Richmond is growing rapidly, and if we can avoid the evils of the alley house and of the large tenement and still have sufficient light, air and yard space, I see no reason why we should not out minor streets through some of our large blocks in certain sections of our city, and thus make it possible for our working people to acquire their homes and live under model conditions."

BELL DAY PERMIT
ISSUED BY MAYOR

Contributions to Be Solicited on May 16 for the Home for Incurables.

In compliance with a request from the board of managers, Mayor Ainslie yesterday granted permission to the Home for Incurables to hold a "Bell Day" on May 16. The officers, managers and agents of the institution are authorized to use the streets, parks and public buildings of the city for the purpose of receiving voluntary contributions for the support of the home.

The official permit was sent to Mrs. John Murphy, president of the board of managers. In his letter Mayor Ainslie commends the efforts of the board to the generous and charitable instincts of the citizens of the city and expresses the sincere hope that its worthy appeal will receive a liberal response from them.

"Bell Day," which has been conducted for several years, is along the line of "Tag Day," with the exception that it covers a wider field. Instead of restricting its activities to the city, the little bells are to be found in every suburban community within a radius of twenty miles. Mrs. S. H. Bemiss, who has charge of the field agents this year, reports that she has practically every station filled and is confident that the contributions will exceed those of previous years by a large amount.

The Home for Incurables is a charitable institution, which was founded for the purpose of alleviating the suffering of the incurably afflicted. The remaining years of those who are unfortunate as to be stricken with an incurable disease.
